Bywater.

At the home of Mrs. Forrest, in Queen street, where Miss Bywater had been stopping, it was said that Miss Bywater kept company with no one but Mr. Settle, and that there was no one to whom suspicion could point as being jealous of her. Mr. Settle and Miss Bywater said Mrs. Forrest "lived close to each other when he lived in the country, and were great friends. I cannot think of any motive for the deed."

Caused Panic at the Park,

The wildest excitement prevailed in the park when Settle and Miss Bywa-ter staggered down the path with their and limp on the right side, and the gushing was visible. Ells hair was satpark it looked as though he was dead ensary. A crowd of men, women oung girls, and children flocked behind the attendants, who carried the wound ed man to the hospital, and it was al park police and a number of pleasure seekers went to the scene of the assault. There they found a large pool of blood and a blood stained stone. Later they scoured the woods inside and out of the park for Settle's assailants, but found no trace of them or clue that would assist in establishing their identity. Shortly before to o'clock a special car was run from the park to Washington to bring the wounded man to the Emergency Hospital. The ambulance methe car at Fourteenth and B streets, and a hurry run was made back to the hospital. Settle was placed on the operating table at 1:10 o'clock, and sent to a ward at 1:45 o'clock, when Dr. Sutton finished redressing the wounds.

The Washington authorities, according to Inspector of Detectives Boardman, have not been asked to aid in the search for Settle's assailants. listed in the army he was desperately in love with the girl, who is decidedly attractive and winsome. Love waned when he was absent so long, and an-other man paid attention to the girl. Charges Premeditated Assault.

"Last night my brother left home and went to Alexandria to join Miss Bywater, who is visiting friends there. From what I can learn they spent most of the evening at Luna Park and were waiting for a car when the shot was fired. I might mention names, but I don't care to do so at this time. I am positive, to do so at this time. I am positive, however, that the effort to kill my brother was premeditated, and that because of his recent attentions to his former sweetheart, fealous persons sought to put him out of 'he way.
